	Comment: The HAV total antibody assay detects both IgG and IgM but does not differentiate between them. A negative result suggests susceptibility to infection. A positive result could be due to vaccination, previously resolved infection or active infection. Testing for HAV IgM should be performed if active HAV infection is suspected. Labcorp offers profiles that will automatically reflex positive HAV total antibody results to IgM (e.g., panel #144226 HAV Antibody w/ Rfx).

HEMOGLOBIN A1C	5.8	<5.7	% of total Hgb	High	Final
For someone without known diabetes, a hemoglobin A1c value between 5.7% and 6.4% is consistent with prediabetes and should be confirmed with a follow-up test. For someone with known diabetes, a value <7% indicates that their diabetes is well controlled. A1c targets should be individualized based on duration of diabetes, age, comorbid conditions, and other considerations. This assay result is consistent with an increased risk of diabetes. Currently, no consensus exists regarding use of hemoglobin A1c for diagnosis of diabetes for children.

Report	Result	Ref. Range	Units		Status	Lab	Date
WHITE BLOOD CELL COUNT	8.7	3.8-10.8	Thousand/uL	Normal	Final
RED BLOOD CELL COUNT	4.82	3.80-5.10	Million/uL	Normal	Final
HEMOGLOBIN	14.7	11.7-15.5	g/dL	Normal	Final

MCH	30.5	27.0-33.0	pg	Normal	Final
MCHC	32.7	32.0-36.0	g/dL	Normal	Final
	For adults, a slight decrease in the calculated MCHC value (in the range of 30 to 32 g/dL) is most likely not clinically significant; however, it should be interpreted with caution in correlation with other red cell parameters and the patient's clinical condition.
